Dear Friend,

This year, I have been thinking a lot about milestones. Some milestones are big, like Morrison celebrating our 70th birthday last year, and some are small, like when a child receiving Morrison services makes it through a whole class period without upset. Every day at Morrison, we applaud the progress that children and their families make toward healing with the help of our dedicated staff. We as Morrison clinicians and staff are like gardeners tending our community’s garden, removing impediments to growth and helping little sprouts thrive.

As champions for children in our community, we emphatically pursue the rewarding, yet challenging, task of helping families heal from trauma and stress. I am inspired every day by the resilience, the fortitude, and the big and small successes of the children, youth, and families in Morrison programs.

In Service,

Drew Henrie-McWilliams
M.S. Ed. Chief Executive Officer
Dear Supporter,

As a parent of two children, I want them to lead healthy, happy, and productive lives. Key to this success is love and a positive supportive environment. Unfortunately, many children in our community do not live in an environment that encourages them to grow and thrive. This is why I have been a volunteer for Morrison for over sixteen years.

Morrison works to help children and families to overcome abuse, addiction, neglect, domestic violence, and other challenges. With Morrison's help, negative cycles can be halted, and families can become healthier. As families and kids become healthier, the entire community becomes healthier.

Through your support and the hard work of staff and volunteers, great things are happening for the kids and for the community. Thank you so very, very much!

Sincerely,

Marc Fovinci
Board Chair
At Morrison, we partner with families and communities to provide effective services for youth coping with adversity and trauma. We offer a comprehensive continuum of mental health, substance abuse and prevention services for youth, from birth to age 21.

We believe difficult childhood experiences can be painful, but learning to cope effectively with those setbacks can lead to positive changes with lasting results. We understand that each youth’s unique strengths, experiences and cultural perspectives help their ability to succeed in school and in life. With these strengths in mind, we assist youth and their families through tough issues.

Through our services, families have been reunited and tens of thousands of lives have been improved.

Our programs vary in intensity and length of service. They are reviewed by our internal program evaluation department, which has been documenting the results of our work and guiding program innovations and improvements for more than 30 years.

“After I came to Morrison, I got my life back.”

Morrison provides mental health services and substance abuse treatment for youth and their families through our array of outpatient treatment services, provided in clinics, schools, and throughout the community.

We work with youth and their support systems, identifying strengths and goals that help us create an individualized treatment plan addressing the challenges that brought the youth into treatment.

We are committed to supporting the growth of each child and adolescent as they strive to realize their full potential.

Morrison’s outpatient programs are: Clinic-Based Outpatient, Community- and School-Based Outpatient (Family Intensive Support Services), and Counterpoint Outpatient.

“When I work with a client, I feel a beautiful surge of hope and renewal. My heart is the fullest it has ever been now that I work at Morrison”

Early Childhood Outpatient

The first five years of life are critical for the development of lifelong health and emotional well-being. That is why Morrison provides early childhood outpatient services to young children, from birth to age six, with intensive mental health needs. Early interventions are linked to favorable outcomes in behavior, cognition, intellectual development, child welfare, educational attainment, and other positive outcomes into adulthood.

Morrison’s Early Childhood Intensive Outpatient Services (ECIOS) is one of our programs specifically designed for very young children. ECIOS provides short-term, high intensity services, in home and community-based settings, to families with young children who are at risk of losing their biological or foster home, preschool, or child care placement. Such children require more services than are routinely provided by early childhood care, education settings or traditional outpatient services.

"Before coming to Morrison, I felt helpless about my son’s emotional outbursts. He is doing so much better now, and we are both much happier”

— Parent of Early Childhood Outpatient Client

Established in 2016, the Morrison Foundation expands philanthropic donations to build financial reserves and to provide oversight of investment assets in support of Morrison Child and Family Services. The Foundation is made possible by an endowment donation from generous benefactors, Chrissy and Donald Washburn.

The Foundation is overseen by a Board of Directors whose mission is to develop and encourage the long-term financial health and growth of Morrison Child and Family Services through fundraising and securing grants. The Morrison Foundation board is composed of local community leaders who are dedicated to our mission, many of whom transitioned from the organization’s board to the foundation board.

The Foundation board members are as follows:

David Thompson (Chair)
George Alexander
Drew Henrie-McWilliams
Christen Picot
Thomas Slick
Alan Vandehey

Morrison provides school-based outpatient treatment at schools during the school day. By closely coordinating with teachers, counselors, social workers, and school administrators, these services are provided to children in a supportive setting where they feel safe. For kids with problems at home, school might be the only place they can be carefree.

Teachers play a vital role in the detection and prevention of child abuse. Having a mental health clinician on campus provides additional support to teachers who may be the first ones to see the warning signs of neglect and/or abuse. The provision of services in schools also removes a barrier to access for families who may have transportation or time constraints.

“I had a lot of anxiety in middle school, and Morrison helped a lot. My therapist was awesome!”
